

Gavin Coyle - Write Up

I have been working with AD Holdings group (Abu Dhabi) for over a year where I've worked on a number of projects to help support and promote safety for their company, namely a peer-to-peer programme, free safety webinars and project specific safety courses, and competency framework. In the peer-to-peer programme, we designed a software to allow safety people to look at each other's live safety documents and to make comments on them to help support a consistent approach to areas like risk assessment. At the free safety webinars and project specific safety courses, we provide all their employees with our free content and we continue to do so which has led to a contract to create Arabic safety courses that are project specific. Aside from that, we are designing a competency framework that will assess groups and safety departments on their competency as a team, score them and work with them to create a higher rating. It's a 12-week programme and we have been booked already for more programmes up until the end of 2023!
