

Manish kumar Chauhan - Write Up

I have worked in Asia and the Middle East for 16 years within various industries. In the last 12 months, I was in my current organization as a head of operations HSSE. I have contributed to many improvements to build the safety culture with innovative ideas.

Safety is an attitude. I believe that safeguarding the people and property is more than just our paid industrial role, actually if your youth and industries are safe and healthy, then it brings prosperity and nation development in the country. If your country is developed and prosperous, it makes the world prosperous and safer by generating more supply chains.

More supply chain brings sustainability in the world and wealth to the people. Today, the world is always connected, and it's very important to understand an individual's responsibility to enhance safety.

I have motivated thousands of employees and contractors to set their mind on the above. I have motivated management and all interested parties on how safety management will help them in business. We improved, we will improve more, it is a continuous process.

I thank WHSAsia for this opportunity to be able to participate.
