

Balamurugan Arunachalam - Write Up

I aim to influence others and to lead by example. I worked on the One Zabeel Project where I was part of the EHS team when the world's longest cantilever building in Dubai was erected with precision, coordination, and a lot of hard work was put in place.

When I was one of the leads for health and safety on the project working with a CRM team, I was praised for being extremely motivated and seen as a valuable member of the team. I played a vital role within the project and showed professionalism within all aspects of my work. I worked with the team on Health and Safety matters and I was able to provide knowledgeable information as well as experience when dealing with Health and Safety-related issues on projects. I work well with the workforce throughout the project, guiding them on health and safety topics to ensure their well-being and safety as well as compliance with project requirements and local Codes of Practice.

I'm curious to learn new things in the EHS-related field and ensure my colleagues are also part of it. Due to my continuous professional development, my professional colleagues contacted me and sought advice on how to maintain their CPD and achieve new credentials. I'm proud and glad to assist them to achieve their goals.
